www.atomeet.com: Organize parties with your friends!

Press release.

Paris, October 14th, 2008.

PlumbR SARL, young company specialized in innovative Internet application development, launches the beta version of Atomeet.

What is Atomeet?

Atomeet is a free web service that helps you organize parties, events or any kind of outing.
In a few clicks only, create your event's homepage, invite your friends, manage your guest list and discuss the event all together.

Create a personalized page for all your events!

What, where, when: your page includes all useful information. A map helps your guests find the location and the closest train stations easily.
This page can be personalized: change colors, backgrounds... it will fit your event perfectly!
Saint Patrick's in an Irish pub, a birthday, clubbing night, a professional seminar, Atomeet fits all kind of event.

Quick & fast to use

No account or login is required to use Atomeet: create your event in a few seconds. Your friends will receive an invitation and will be able to RSVP in one click. They will not have to create an account either.
Drag'n drop, «on-the-fly» edition, optimized loading via ajax, geolocation, on-screen intelligent notifications (growl): Atomeet uses all the latest innovative technology to offer its users a simple and unique experience.

Discuss with your friends

Use the wall to chat about the event. A poll widget will soon be available so the location and date can be voted for.

Promote your page by automatically diffusing it via common social networks (available soon) and all your contacts (service compatible with Microsoft Live, Yahoo! and Google mail).

About PlumbR

PlumbR is a young company created in the US in March 2007, then in France in January 2008 by Hugues Jupin and Romain Thiberville.
